

Bond n Build

Bond n Build is a powerful coaching service for parents in which I support you in undertaking a build project at home with your children. It is designed for parental connection through participation.

Essentially I will enable you to do what I do in schools and kindergartens in your own home.

I will facilitate the collaborative, creative thinking and planning at the beginning of a project between you and your child(ren) and provide you with answers to 'the what', 'the why' and then 'the how'!

As one of your team, I will

- ensure that the project really gets your children's personality into the build
- coach you in the use of tools and guide you towards successful completion
- recommend appropriate materials
- provide advice regarding safety

As an additional service I will record the process in a photo album as a 'forever keepsake' or a 'show-n-tell' at school.

Bond n Build is for your family if

- You can see the benefits of building relationships between each other whilst you build, for example, a treehouse,
- A practical 'hands-on' approach to problem solving is likely to better serve any member of the family whose learning style is more experiential by nature,
- As a 'home schooler' you share my conviction that 'project based learning' offers students young and old, a truly holistic opportunity in their learning,

....or you are simply drawn to the idea of building something together as a family but just don't know how to get started or need a little support along the way.

I would be excited to talk to you about what you might have in mind...contact me today.

For details regarding price see my Pricing Policy

